President's Message

Let's look forward to Spring!

...Although we need rain, enough of this winter cold weather.

Our LMMAR members have come together to support the Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale 2008 Toys For Tots Campaign. The collection of funds was fantastic and more than we expected. Carolyn Hobbs, LMMAR Toys For Tots and Second Harvest Food Bank Director has done a fantastic job. Thank you Carolyn! This further demonstrates LMMAR as a professional class organization.

LMMAR Collects $2,335.40 for 2008 Toys For Tots Campaign

This is the first year that LMMAR is officially acknowledged as a contributor of Toys for Tots and Second Harvest Food Bank by Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale. LMMAR has been credited for the collection of $2,335.40 as a separate entity under the Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale Lines of Business. Carolyn Hobbs, LMMAR Toys For Tots and Second Harvest Food Bank Director was active collecting funds from Toys For Tots Cookbook sales and donations at our December LMMAR Holiday Luncheon Dance Party and the Lockheed Martin Street Faire at Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale. We thank the United States Marine Corps for all of their help and support at Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale events for the Toys For Tots 2008 Campaign. Let's look forward to beating our 2008 collections for 2009 Toys for Tots and Second Harvest Food Bank Campaign!

Mr. Mike Harrington, Executive Director, Lockheed Martin Employees Foundation reported that the overall funds collected in the 2008 Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale Campaign for Toys for Tots and Second Harvest Food Bank was $260,103.00. This is approximately $15,000.00 more than last year. Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale is one of the top three contributors in Silicon Valley of which their employees donate 97% of all funds collected. The number one category of recipients of the Second Harvest Food Bank services is Children, Senior Citizens, and Working Families. Mike wishes to thank all of the LMMAR members for their generous donations and support.

Norm Dhom, Membership Vice President has again put together our annual LMMAR Member Directory on time. Thank you Norm!

The LMMAR Member Directory is a great information source for locating Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale based Retirees. Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale does not have a listing of all Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale Retirees. I want to establish this Directory as the prime Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale Retiree resource for Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale. I request that we all work together to find all Lockheed Martin Sunnyvale based Retirees to join LMMAR and add to our Member Directory. You are our only starting place to accomplish this undertaking. One can sit on the fence or play on the playing field. I suggest playing on the playing field is more fun. Will you do it? Let me know of your ideas to accomplish this activity. Together we can achieve this goal!

We need volunteers to fill strategic Executive Board positions as Secretary, Asst. Secretary, and Asst. Newsletter Editor. I encourage all members to participate in our professional class organization, volunteer your help, have fun, and meet great people.

Be Happy!

Be Part of History!

Ever since 1956, when Space Systems started producing ground breaking technologies here in Sunnyvale, the company has played a key role in the city's development. As a tribute to the company's local contribution, the new Sunnyvale Heritage Park Museum would like to feature a permanent section of Lockheed Martin graphics and display models.

If you would like to preserve the Lockheed Martin-Sunnyvale legacy, and have an extra model or graphic of Polaris, Poseidon, Trident, Agena, Corona or other Space Systems, Ocean Systems products, ANVO's, IDC's, plans, Zippo lighters, ashtrays, cups, timesheets, maps, pay stubs, personal photos, any item that would have been on a desks or in the offices during the 50's early 60's please consider donating the historical replica to Lockheed Martin for use at the Museum.

Lockheed Martin-Sunnyvale is looking for items will be put into a continuous rotation of displays and will not be returned. you are interested in contributing, please email Carol Ackerman, Manager, Community Relations Communication Lockheed Martin Space Systems Company with a brief: carol.ackerman@lmco.com.

BRIDGE

Last year was a reasonably good year for the bridge club, but none of us are getting any younger and we need a constant supply of new members to keep us going. We have a great group of players, but we need you to join us.

Generated $997 million in cash from operations for the quarter; $4.4 billion for the full year

Provides updated outlook for 2009

Lockheed Martin Corporation (NYSE: LMT) today reported fourth quarter 2008 net earnings of $823 million ($2.05 per diluted share), compared to $799 million ($1.89 per diluted share) in 2007. Net sales were $11.1 billion, compared to fourth quarter 2007 sales of $10.8 billion. Cash from operations for the fourth quarter of 2008 was $997 million, compared to $425 million in 2007.

For the year ended December 31, 2008, net earnings were $3.2 billion ($7.86 per share), compared to $3.0 billion ($7.10 per share) in 2007. Net sales for 2008 were $42.7 billion, a 2% increase over the $41.9 billion in 2007. Cash from operations for 2008 was $4.4 billion, compared to $4.2 billion in 2007. Return on Invested Capital (ROIC) was 21.7% for 2008 compared to 21.4% in 2007.

"Our results for 2008 reflect excellent operational and financial performance across all business areas, despite the difficult economic environment," said Bob Stevens, Chairman, President and CEO. "By holding steady to our strategy of diversifying, differentiating and delivering to enhance shareholder and customer value, our 146,000 dedicated employees demonstrated their unwavering commitment to making Lockheed Martin the world's premier global security company."

Lockheed Martin Begins Key Test Of First SBIRS GEO Satellite With New Flight Software

SUNNYVALE, Calif., January 13th, 2009 – Lockheed Martin [NYSE: LMT] announced today that the first Space-Based Infrared System (SBIRS) geosynchronous orbit (GEO-1) satellite has entered a major test phase with the latest version of flight software designed to provide highly reliable spacecraft command and control operations.

The U.S. Air Force SBIRS program is designed to provide early warning of missile launches, and simultaneously support other missions including missile defense, technical intelligence and battlespace awareness.

The test of the GEO-1 spacecraft, known as Baseline Integrated System Test (BIST), is being conducted at Lockheed Martin's Space Systems facilities in Sunnyvale, Calif. The test will characterize the performance of the integrated satellite and establish a performance baseline prior to entering thermal vacuum testing.

"The start of this extensive test is a major achievement that will demonstrate our readiness to proceed with the critical thermal vacuum test phase," said Jeff Smith, Lockheed Martin's SBIRS vice president. "Working closely with our customer, the team continues to make strides on all fronts in preparing GEO-1 for flight and we look forward to delivering this cutting-edge spacecraft to the warfighter."

Lockheed Martin's SBIRS flight software architecture is designed to enable robust command and data handling, fault management and safe-hold capabilities on the GEO satellite system.

The flight software delivered for the BIST milestone contains applications that control space vehicle electrical power, temperature, attitude and navigation. It also features a robust fault management system, which responds when an anomaly is detected during on-orbit operations, putting the satellite into a safe state while operators on the ground analyze the situation and take corrective action.

In addition, the Lockheed Martin team recently delivered the GEO-1 Command and Telemetry Database, known as Database 91. This major release supports qualification and delivery of the SBIRS Ground Segment software, and development of operational command plans and scripts that will be used for the upcoming GEO-1 intersegment tests, readiness rehearsals and launch.

Delivery of the final flight software block is planned for February to support thermal vacuum testing which will validate spacecraft performance at temperature extremes greater than those expected during on-orbit operations. The spacecraft is planned for delivery to the Air Force in early fiscal year 2010 in preparation for launch aboard an Atlas V launch vehicle.

The SBIRS team is led by the Space Based Infrared Systems Wing at the U.S. Air Force Space and Missile Systems Center, Los Angeles Air Force Base, Calif. Lockheed Martin Space Systems Company, Sunnyvale, Calif., is the SBIRS prime contractor, with Northrop Grumman Electronic Systems, Azusa, Calif., as the payload integrator. Air Force Space Command operates the SBIRS system.
